CARLISLE'S SOLICITUDE.

Secretary Carlisle has addressed a letter to the Chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee of Kentucky on his candidacy for the Presidential nomination. In this letter Mr. Carlisle seems ironical. He says: "I feel a profound interest in the welfare of my party." But he is much more concerned about its declaration of principles than its selection of candidates.

Mr. Carlisle went into President Cleveland's Cabinet when his party had an overwhelming majority in the country. He had 277 electoral votes to Harrison's 145, and a House of Representatives in which his party had over 100 majority. Mr. Carlisle's profound interest for the welfare of his party induced him to suggest, as the principal adviser of the President, a policy that has driven from the ranks of that party every member of it who believes that the welfare of the country is of greater importance to its citizens than the ascendancy of a party whose organization has abandoned its time-honored principles and traditions and allied itself with the money power of Wall street and Lombard street, and whose acknowledged leaders joined with the Republicans of the last in the halls of Congress to fasten the collar of the gold trust on the necks of the people. Mr. Carlisle manifested a profound interest in the welfare of his party during the campaign in Kentucky, when every time he spoke his sentiments injured the party. His solicitude for the welfare of his party induced him during the Senatorial struggle to prevent the election of Blackburn to the Senate, because Blackburn had the manliness to recoil against the Wall-street yoke.

Possibly Mr. Carlisle did not intend to be ironical. He may be aware of the fact that Mr. Cleveland and his Cabinet and the few "cuckoos" in the Senate and House comprise about all that is left of "my party." In that case it would be quite natural for him to feel a profound interest in its welfare, but if he thinks that the rank and file of the party which elected Mr. Cleveland four years ago is in sympathy with his policy, or would support him or any member of the Cabinet for President, he has but to announce his candidacy to dislodge his mind of the idea.

THE ROENTGEN RAY IN LAW.

Daniel David of Brooklyn, New York, brought suit against Dr. Guimond of Bath Beach, Long Island, for $25,000 damages for malpractice. The plaintiff claims that the defendant did not set his son's broken arm properly and in consequence the arm has been permanently crippled. David had Professor Peckham of the Adelphi Academy, Brooklyn, photograph the crippled arm by the Roentgen rays. The pictures show that the arm was not properly set. There is a space of half an inch between the broken ends of the bone, which precludes the possibility of the fracture knitting properly.

The trial of the case takes place before the Supreme Court at Brooklyn. Eminent counsel is engaged on both sides and much interest is taken in the result, as it is the first time photographs taken by the Roentgen ray have been introduced as evidence in a court of justice. Henceforth when a surgical operation is performed which involves the setting of fractured bones, and there is any doubt as to their proper adjustment the Roentgen ray will be brought into requisition to determine whether the bones have been placed in a natural position or not, and cautious surgeons will be likely to have such photographs taken as a safeguard against possible suits for malpractice.

A CHARGE EXPLDED.

The charge that the State Printing Office is being conducted extravagantly is fully answered and exploded by the State Printer. The law makes the office a union one and union prices must be paid compositors. If that is not satisfactory the law should be repealed, but it is the duty of the State Printer to abide by it while it remains on the statutes. The fact is the State Government was as in the last year. That is shown by the State Controller's report, and was so stated in the JOURNAL when the report was published. The statement, which was backed by the Controller's figures, passed unchallenged by the gold press and it cannot be truthfully contradicted. Nevada never had more economical officials than those now in office, as a comparison of the expenditures in the last year with those of former years will prove to any unprejudiced person, whether he be silverite or goldbug.

A SILVER REPUBLICAN DEFEATED.

Hon. Binger Herman was defeated for the renomination for Congress in the First District in Oregon by a man named Tonga. Herman had been elected five times to Congress on the Republican ticket. He made a good faithful representative, the height of his offending being his support of the silver cause. That was sufficient to provoke the enmity of the gold men and their power is omnipotent in the Republican organization.

It appears that there is no place for a conscientious, straight-forward silver advocate in the Republican ranks, but it is also true that no silver man of that character expects position or preferment from the party.

The new registration law in South Carolina is now in force, and it will disqualify a large number of colored voters. The registration books are now open, and every person who desires to be registered is required to read a section of the constitution, as the law provides. The Registration Board is composed of three members, and they are the judges of an applicant's qualifications. In the country very few negroes have the educational qualification and, therefore, cannot register.

The Sacramento Bee continues to champion the silver cause against the gold men, whether they pretend to be Republicans or Democrats. It scorns the idea that no prominent man will be found for the Republican nomination who favors free coinage. The voice of the people will be very distinct if the Bee's proposition is adopted, and the Pacific Coast delegations are pledged to vote for a silver man on a silver platform.

CHURCHILL COUNTY.

Out of Debt and Money in Its Treasury.

Hon. J. M. Sanford, one of the first settlers in Churchill county, and who has been elected to various positions from law maker to custodian of the public funds, is in Reno. In a conversation with an old timer who served in the Legislature with him, he said:

"Twenty years ago an attempt was made to partition Churchill for partisan reasons. The bill passed the House by a majority of one, and the Senate with a larger majority. Governor Bradley was absent from the State on account of sickness, and Acting Governor Adams vetoed the bill. That saved Churchill from dismemberment, and to-day it is on as sound a basis as any in the State. It does not owe a dollar and it has money in the treasury. The people are not getting rich, but many of them are in good circumstances and nearly all are making a living. They practice economy in county and domestic affairs, and when business revives Churchill will hold its own with the other counties."

GEORGIA MINSTRELS.

Fun at the Grand Opera House in Peoria, Ill.

Richards & Pringle's Minstrels have come and gone, and it is safe to say they have left a pleasing impression on the large audience that assembled at the Grand last evening. But few vacant seats were noticed when the curtain arose at the beginning of the performance. The show took immensely, and was relished from start to finish.

The singing generally was very good, especially that of the Crescent City Quartette. Billy Kersands, the only, is enough to drive the dyspepsia entirely from anyone's system. His mouth is certainly his fortune. The "Black Patti" Gauze, was very good indeed in his female impersonations.

Jaivan, the juggler, was also a pleasant feature of the entertainment. In fact the entire performance was up to the same standard as the particulars mentioned.—Peoria (Ill.) Journal.

At McKissick's Opera House next Saturday evening. Seats on sale at Luke's.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC ELECTION.

The Old Board of Directors Chosen.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Southern Pacific Company C. P. Huntington, Thomas E. Stillman, H. E. Huntington, Charles F. Crocker, Thomas H. Hubbard, Russell J. Wilson, George Crocker, Charles G. Lathrop, J. C. Sturts and N. T. Smith were elected directors for the ensuing year. This is the old board elected a year ago. The annual report was not presented, but the statement of the Central Pacific was read and discussed, though it will not be given to the public for some days.

Justice Court.

The preliminary examination in the case of the State vs. Frank Marona, charged with setting fire to the hay stack of James Burke took up the time of the Justice Court yesterday. A number of witnesses testified, but the examination was not concluded. The evidence against Marona is principally circumstantial so far, and the outcome is doubtful.

Not an Italian.

The statement published in the Reno Gazette of last Monday that the fire which burned James Burke's hay near Steamboat was of incendiary origin, and that Frank Marona, an Italian, had been arrested and locked up charged with the crime, is not true. Frank Marona is not an Italian, but a Swiss.

Fourth Street.

THE INSTITUTE.

The Fourth Day—Interesting Program and Good Attendance. The attendance at the session of the State Teachers' Institute was not as large yesterday as on previous days, owing no doubt to the inclemency of the weather, but there was a good crowd nevertheless and the same interest manifested by those present as has been shown during the week.

After the usual opening exercises the first paper discussed was by Professor E. W. Winfrey on practical business. Mr. Winfrey described the methods used in his school. The pupils are allowed to transact actual business, using school coin and merchandise. He claimed that this was the only way to reach practical results. An interesting discussion followed.

Science work by Miss Fyne of Virginia was an excellent paper, and the young lady was highly complimented.

Miss Linehan of Reno read a paper on management that is deserving of special mention. Her ideas were excellent, and during the reading of the paper she held the close attention of the audience.

Professors Bray and Averill crossed words upon the subject of discipline and the teachers reaped the benefit of the discussion.

Mr. C. L. McLane of Virginia occupied an hour with an informal talk upon map drawing and sand modeling. Mr. McLane is an adept in this particular line and consequently gave one of the most interesting practical lectures of the session. Geographies were severely criticized in respect to their failure to apply a uniform scale in their maps and so convey an erroneous idea of the relative sizes of the different continents. His lecture was very instructive and received the most favorable comments.

Mr. I. B. Marshall delivered a most excellent paper on Patriotism and Reverence for the Flag. The speaker suggested among many other good things that a certain regular time should be set aside throughout the State for patriotic exercises. The suggestion will probably be followed as a committee was appointed to report a resolution covering the suggestion of Mrs. Marshall and devising ways and means for carrying it out. Action will be taken upon it to-day.

Mr. McCarthy also said:

"In regard to the assertion in the News that the positions in this office are luxurious, Mr. Dunn is quoting his own experience during his occupancy of the foremanship under Mr. Eckley. Dunn, on surrendering his position, congratulated Mr. Mackey upon having acquired an easy berth, assuring him that the work did not average two hours a day. I simply refer you to any State officer who has occasion to visit the printing office as to the amount of work done. The wages are the same as those paid to any foreman in any union office, and the same as Mr. Dunn drew down for four years."

Mr. McCarthy further stated that the position of foreman was undoubtedly considered by some to be a very desirable berth, as an ex-Republican office holder in December, 1894, had tendered him $1,000 for the position. Mr. McCarthy declined the bribe, stating that no positions in his office were open for bids. In case the News would like to publish the name of the gentleman who made the offer, it will be accommodated on application at the State printing office.

Continuing his quest for information, the Appeal reporter ascertained the following facts from the Controller's books:

For the years 1891 and 1892 Eckley got an appropriation of $15,000, this enabled him, on December 31, 1892, to lay in a stock of paper amounting to $795, and start in clear with his $12,000 which was appropriated for 1893 and 1894. Notwithstanding the assertion that Eckley did more work in those two years without a deficiency, Controller Horton's report shows a deficiency of $595.48. (Controller's report, 1895, page 70.) The State Printer's report for that year shows an even balance. Besides this McCarthy had to pay a bill of $566.90 for paper, ordered by Eckley, with very little to show for it, as is instanced by the fact that before he had occupied the office three weeks he had to buy paper amounting to $48 to finish legislative work. The engine had to be repaired at a cost of $31, and there were many other necessary things to be purchased. Take the three sums enumerated above:

Stock on hand Dec. 31, 1892..... $795.00
Deficiency (Controller's Rep.)..... 595.48
Total..... $1,390.48

And it will be seen that Mr. Eckley actually used up nearly $2,000 more than his appropriation.

THE STATE PRINTING OFFICE:

A Few Facts Which Refute the Charge of Extravagance.

The Carson Appeal has been investigating the charges of extravagance at the State printing office and reports as follows:

State Printer McCarthy stated that the whole matter was brought about by his refusal to create a deficiency in the office such as the publication of the Supreme Court reports would necessitate.

He further stated at the time the appropriations of 1895 were made the Ways and Means Committee of the House and Senate were given to understand that no volume of Supreme Court reports would be ready for publication during the years 1893 and 1894. At that time there were but fifteen or sixteen decisions written. The regulations in regard to costs of appeal have been altered so that the cases came in faster than was expected.

At present there is no deficiency and there is not likely to be any, notwithstanding the fact that during the past fifteen months nearly as much work has been done as during any two years of Mr. Eckley's administration.

Mr. McCarthy also said:

"In regard to the assertion in the News that the positions in this office are luxurious, Mr. Dunn is quoting his own experience during his occupancy of the foremanship under Mr. Eckley. Dunn, on surrendering his position, congratulated Mr. Mackey upon having acquired an easy berth, assuring him that the work did not average two hours a day. Two Lives Saved.

Mrs. Phoebe Thomas, of Junction City, Ill., was told by her doctors she had consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her, and she says it saved her life. Mr. Thos. Eggers, 139 Florida St. San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching consumption, tried without result everything else, then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results, of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this remedy for coughs and colds. Free trial bottles at Hodgkinson's Drug Store. Regular size 50c. and $1.

EVENING SESSION.

The program of the evening session was given at the Opera House. There was a large attendance, but only two of the speakers presented themselves, viz: Rev. Samuel Unsworth and Dr. J. Bergstein.

The latter spoke of the exercises he had witnessed in Miss Urn's room and commended them highly. He condemned the practice of small school children studying at home in the evening. He claimed that this practice frequently was the origin of the American complaint known as dyspepsia, as the evening meal of the child had not had time to become properly digested before their brains were surcharged with blood from mental exertion. He condemned the use of slates in the school-room as a means of communicating disease, and recommended the use entirely of paper. The doctor's talk was offhand and very interesting and the teachers gained much information.

The Hotel Reno Hop.

Over one hundred couples attended the hop at the Hotel Reno last evening given by the management in honor of the visiting teachers and guests. Dancing was kept up until late hour, when refreshments were served and the participants one and all voted Mr. and Mrs. Hickey and Manager McInerney royal entertainers.

Mr. Unsworth spoke of the moral teaching in schools, and claimed that said that his mind was not clear on the evidence of Alpheus Vaughan and would like his testimony read. The defense objected and the objection was sustained by the court.

Judge Oheney then delivered his charge to the jury, and at about 9 o'clock the jury retired for deliberation.

At 11:30 no verdict had been agreed upon and the jury was informed that they could retire and their verdict, if arrived at, could be presented this morning.

Lots of Talk.

About Parks' Cough Syrup is what we desire. Everyone who tries this remedy says that it has no equal in the cure of all diseases of the throat and lungs.
